

QORTEX™

Introducing the world's first TV-based Telehealth system that allows doctors real-time virtual access to patients at home without the need of a computer, smartphone or tablet

MedSign International Corporation, a leading Telehealth solutions company introduces Qortex™; the world's first TV-based Telehealth system that allows physicians real-time virtual access to patients, especially those confined and isolated at home, by using the homeowner's television to communicate.

What sets us apart... Qortex is not like any other Telehealth system on the market today. We are the ONLY HIPAA compliant Telehealth delivery solution that uses the home TV screen to visually communicate without the need of a computer, smartphone or tablet. Our patent-pending communication system is the ONLY platform that enables companies like Teledoc, Amwell, and MDlive, to deliver their Telehealth services directly into the home via the homeowner's TV.

Qortex Connects...

Qortex IS THE LIFELINE right now for seniors, veterans, the disadvantaged and others who are confined and isolated because of the Coronavirus-mandated stay-at-home orders. Anyone can use Qortex to see and talk to their loved ones over their TV screen, which is so important during this time of crisis.

The Qortex Telehealth System incorporates a communication hub, camera and remote control that connects to any home TV. Its patent-pending system offers a single comprehensive platform to support all Telehealth needs. Qortex also includes a suite of health, wellness, safety & security apps and services. No computer or tech skills are needed. It's easy to set-up and uses a senior-simple remote control to operate. Key features include:

- Two-way telehealth conferencing using the home TV
- Concurrent remote vital sign data measurements
- Calendar-based on-TV screen display of important reminders
- Keyhole; a discreet caregiver monitoring and supervision service
- Personal Emergency Response System (PERS)
- Secure web-accessible patient portal

Greater Access to Patients = Higher Quality Care

Qortex offers all medical professionals and healthcare agencies real-time virtual access to their patients at home 24/7 delivering improved quality of care and service. The Qortex design:

- Integrates with ANY hospital EMR to deliver remote connectivity directly into the home
- Connects with ANY Bluetooth-enabled medical devices
- Supports ANY 3rd-party health app or Telehealth services

The Qortex Telehealth System is now available to hospitals, physician groups, home care agencies, government and professional healthcare companies. For more information visit www.medsign.com or call 800-418-9885.
